Ever since it was created in 1966, the Promotrans association has been deeply involved in improving the quality of vocational education and training in the transport and logistics business sector. Our training programmes have been designed to meet the requirements of managers, employees as well as students.

Our achievements include:

- Recognition from the State: over the years Promotrans has been granted accreditation by the Ministry of Education, Ministry of Employment and Ministry of Transport.
- A wide range of tailor-made training programmes.
- A faculty and curriculum ideally suited to enable each student and apprentice to take up managing roles in the future.
- Working closely with the industry to facilitate professional integration, thereby putting theory into practice.

HIGHER EDUCATION

SUP DE LOG
École Internationale des Transports et de la Logistique

Sup de Log is a network of university and work-linked higher education programmes allowing students to gain first-hand knowledge of their companies while preparing for their examinations.

- Multimodal Transport Management and Logistics
- DUL: University degree in logistics. Students enrol in this one year programme to hold managerial positions in the logistics sector
- Professionally-oriented Bachelor's degree: students carry out both academic and work-linked training
- Master's degree in business management specialised in logistics

The programme covers the whole range of the supply chain:

- Supply chain and quality strategy
- Purchasing and supply management
- Logistics and operations management
- Strategic management
- HR management
- Financial management

ESMVI
École Supérieure de Maintenance en Véhicules Industriels

- A 2-year course specialised in the maintenance of trucks and utility vehicles
- The TOEIC is organised in all our schools nationwide
- We have developed APEL (Accreditation of Prior Experiential Learning) for our higher education degrees. APEL recognises the skills and knowledge acquired outside formal educational institutions. It enables adult learners to earn a degree through the process of identification, assessment and formal acknowledgement of prior learning and achievement
